gm recruitment, a division of GMRC Limited, provides clients within the construction and building industries with a professional, rapid solution to their onsite staffing needs, from unskilled labourers to site and office management, on both a contract and permanent basis.

About us

Having realised a high demand from contractors wanting to work with an organisation that was able to deliver a high quality, good value service, George Willis and Mark Foxwell founded gm Recruitment.

We service clients including major contractors, fit-out specialists and facilities management companies throughout the UK and Europe.

For more information contact george@gmrecruitment.co.uk or call him on 020 8246 4270.

 gm's sole focus is construction recruitment. Our consultants have a wealth of experience as both recruiters and construction professionals.

 We are a service-led organisation; we pride ourselves on taking a more personal approach to agency work.

 Committed to forming long term relationships, we will tailor our service to meet your needs.

 An extensive and diverse database of fully referenced operatives.

 Whatever the size of your operation, we will offer a solution which will match your requirements and exceed your expectations.

 We are corporate members of Recruitment and Employers Confederation (REC) and their specialist construction sector.
